701

It shall be the duty of all industry members to have knowledge and to be aware of all laws regulating the real estate industry in Nova Scotia.

Standards of business practice have been rising consistently, and every industry member is expected to conform to the higher standards as they become the norm. In considering whether an industry member may have breached any provision, the accepted and normal standards of practice in the profession are taken into account by the Commission. The following code of conduct and standards of business practice are accepted standards of the Commission. The standards set out herein are not all inclusive and there are additional standards which are applicable in appropriate circumstances and which may be published by the Commission from time to time. The following standards are intended to be guidelines to be taken into account when particular situations are considered by industry members and the Commission.

Standards of Business Practice

702

Article 1 The business of an industry member shall be conducted in strict accordance with the current terms and conditions of the Act, the Regulations, the Bylaw and Policies & Procedures of the Commission.

Article 2 The industry member shall protect and promote the interests of their client. This primary obligation does not relieve the industry member of the responsibility of dealing fairly with all other parties to the transaction.

Article 3 The industry member shall fully disclose in writing to, and shall seek written acknowledgement of disclosure from, all parties to a transaction regarding the role and the nature of the service the industry member will be providing to the client versus the customer or other party to the transaction. The industry member shall also disclose their role to other industry members involved in the transaction. The industry member shall provide this agency disclosure before a relationship with a client develops.

Article 4 The industry member should ensure written representation agreements whenever possible in order to avoid misunderstandings with their clients and customers. Releases, promises and guarantees of specific service(s) must also be in writing.

Article 5 The industry member shall, prior to the signing of any agreement, fully inform the signing party regarding the type of expenses for which he/she may be normally liable.

Article 6 The industry member is obliged to render a skilled and conscientious service, in conformity with standards of competence which are reasonably expected in the specific real estate disciplines in which the industry member engages. - Article 8 In providing an opinion of value of real property, an industry member shall not undertake to provide such an opinion if it is outside the industry member's field of experience to do so, unless this fact is disclosed to the client or unless assistance is obtained from another person who has experience in this area. In all other circumstances, the industry member shall not provide an opinion of value on property in which the industry member has a present or contemplated interest without first disclosing this fact to the client. Fees charged for providing an opinion of value shall not be based on the amount of value reported.

- Article 11 The industry member shall ensure that agreements regarding real estate transactions are in writing in clear and understandable language, expressing the specific terms, conditions, obligations and commitments of the parties to the agreement. A copy of each final agreement shall be furnished to each party upon their signing or initialling, and shall be dealt with in accordance with the instructions of the parties involved.
- Article 12 An industry member shall present all written offers and counter-offers as objectively and quickly as possible. This must be done within the specified timeframes or a written extension must be obtained. An industry member shall not withhold or delay the presentation of an offer without the express written consent of the client. When there are multiple offers, an industry member acting on behalf of the seller must disclose to all potential buyers or their agents that there are multiple offers, unless otherwise instructed by the seller in writing, but must not disclose to any other person the specific terms and conditions of other offers.
